Aberhart Rites Held Wednesday At Vancouver

William Aberhart, B.A.

Funeral services for Premier William Aberhart, Canada's leading exponent of the social credit philosophy, were held from the Canadian Memorial Church, Vancouver, on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and were of a semi-private nature.

The Alberta premier died at a Vancouver hospital on Sunday at 5 a.m., in his 65th year.

Mrs. Aberhart and her two daughters, Mrs. J. M. Cooper and Mrs. Charles A. McNutt, were at his bedside when the end came.

The services were conducted by the Rev. C. Harrison Villett, church pastor and a long time friend of the late premier.

All members of the provincial cabinet, with the exception of Hon. D. B. MacMillan, minister of agriculture, attended the funeral.

ONE MUST REMAIN

Under British law, at least one member of the cabinet must stay in the province at all times to carry on government business, and Mr. MacMillan was delegated by the cabinet in council to remain in Edmonton.

The funeral and interment were held at Vancouver in deference to the wishes of Mrs. Aberhart, who will make her home in Vancouver in the future. Her two daughters, Mrs. Cooper and Mrs. McNutt, are residents of the coast city.

Memorial services will be held in Edmonton and Calgary next Sunday.

The Calgary services will be held in the Calgary Prophetic Bible Institute commencing at 3 p.m.

The premier had been in Vancouver since April 18. He entered the Vancouver hospital for a medical checkup shortly after arriving there. He was discharged several days later, but was readmitted to hospital last week suffering from a serious liver ailment which subsequently proved fatal.

Hon. E. C. Manning, provincial secretary, and Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, arrived in Vancouver Sunday morning only to learn that the premier had died three hours before their arrival. One of Calgary's five representatives in the provincial legislature, Premier William Aberhart first came to Calgary from Ontario in 1919 to assume a teaching post with the Calgary public school board.

He was principal of the Crescent Heights high school here for many years before entering the field of provincial politics prior to the Alberta general election in August, 1936.

Wing Commander Brown Inspects Local Air Cadets

Ceremonial Inspection Held At Sports Field Last Thursday; Insp. Wing Commander Brown, of No. 7, S.F.T.S. Macleod. He complimented the officers and cadets for the grand showing they made of the ceremonial drill despite the fact that they had so little time to rehearse outside drill due to unfavorable weather conditions.

The local Air Cadets had their annual inspection on Thursday, May 20, and received very high praise from the inspecting officer Wing Commander Brown, of No. 7, S.F.T.S. Macleod. He complimented the officers and cadets for the grand showing they made of the ceremonial drill despite the fact that they had so little time to rehearse outside drill due to unfavorable weather conditions.

The ceremonial inspection was followed by the parade to the school where a display of physical drill and tumbling was demonstrated. This brought great praise from the inspecting officers and a special invitation was extended to go to No. 7 S.F.T.S. and put on a similar show for the airman. In other class rooms a bombing raid was in progress bringing into the scheme the many courses covered by the cadets and showed the progress they made in navigation, wireless and aircraft recognition.

In the evening a supper was given by the Lions club at which officers of the inspection party and recruiting staff attended, also the local unit committee and guests. Flt. Lieut. Bowman of No. 4 Training Command, spoke of the efficiency of the local cadets and thanked the Lions club for their interest in the movement. Flt. Lieut. Davidson made a few remarks as did the members of his staff. Replies were made by Flt. Lieut. Harold Houghton and Flying Officer Percy Dickieson.

This brought the day's proceedings to a happy conclusion, every one feeling that the time and money expended in the cadet movement was proving to be of great value to the boys of Coleman and that it deserved the full co-operation of all parents and local organizations.

Little interest was shown by the public in the ceremonial inspection despite the fact that an invitation to attend had been extended to all citizens. This is correctable and it is to be hoped that on future occasions the general public will attend in greater numbers to support and encourage the cadets in their efforts.

Enlistments of local men in the R.C.A.F. at Calgary last week included Don McDonald, Arthur Westworth and Graeme Howarth. Mr. McDonald has been posted to Edmonton, while Arthur Westworth will report on May 27 and Mr. Howarth on June 14.

Rev. J. E. Kirk Accepts Call From Lamont

There came Friday morning last, with something of a shock to the local United church congregation, the word that the local minister, Rev. J. E. Kirk, had received very unexpectedly a unanimous call from the Lamont United church to become their minister. The call came like a bolt from the blue, and important decisions were required hastily. It was with regret that Mr. Kirk felt obliged to ask for his release from the Coleman congregation at so short notice and from Calgary, but he felt this was a very definite opportunity which could not very well be refused, and accepted the invitation to Lamont, which has a strong church organization in a most important centre of the church's work. From the minister's point of view, Lamont is considered a very desirable church, for younger men especially.

Through Mr. Kirk we have been advised that Rev. D. K. Allan, who ministered for a lengthy period to the Coleman congregation, wished to be remembered to all his friends at Coleman. Mr. Allan is at Tofield and is reported to be in fair health.

Rev. H. J. Bevan, who had been the minister at Cayley during the last three years, received a call to Trinity United church, Vancouver, during the Conference sessions and accepted the call. Our local minister states that, in conversation with Mr. Bevan, he learned that no further word had been received concerning Douglas Bevan and that the change to the Vancouver city was very acceptable.

Many of the Coleman people will remember Rev. J. L. Wright. He accepted a call to Vulcan, south of Calgary, and will be taking up his duties there the first Sunday in July, the time determined as the date for all ministers to take charge of their new fields.

East Coleman Youngster Badly Burned by Explosion

Several Youngsters Had Been Building a Fire; Can of Gasoline Thought to Have Exploded in Jimmy's Face.

Jimmy Chalmers, about 12 or 13 years of age and son of Pte. and Mrs. Alex. Chalmers, received very severe burns on Saturday, May 22, when it is thought a can of gasoline exploded in his face when he and several other youngsters were playing around a fire which they had started.

It is stated that the youngsters had built a fire on the ground and after playing with it for some time decided to go home. Before leaving, however, they decided to throw a tin of some fluid, thought to be gas, on the fire. The fluid suddenly exploded in Chalmers' face, causing critical burns to both face and arms.

Enquiry at the hospital on Wednesday afternoon revealed that he is now recovering, although it will take some time before his wounds heal.

Baptisms

The Sacrament of Baptism was administered at the United church manse on the evening of Tuesday, May 25, to the children of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Graff, of White Fox, Saskatchewan. The children were Verna Irene and Ronald Jack. Then there was the Squadron Leader who sat on a W. D. Sergeant's lap going into town the other night!!!! Nice work if you can get it, Sir!!

NATURALLY NOT

Channing Pollock tells this story: At 14 I made my first railroad journey alone, from Salt Lake City to Belleville, Kas. One of the passengers, a stockily built man, took an interest in me; frankly amused when I gave my views on Byron and Dickens.

At last he inquired whether I had read "The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes."

"Don't you think," I inquired pontifically, "that detective stories are a waste of time?"

My newly made friend grinned widely. "Well, no, I don't," he said. "You see, I write 'em. My name is A. Conan Doyle."

The "Distinguished Civic Service Award" for 1942 was presented posthumously to Sir Edward Beatty, G.B.E., K.C., LL.D., D.C.L., long-time chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, recently at a ceremony in the board room of the Windsor Station, Montreal. Dr. Henry A. Beatty, of Toronto, Sir Edward's brother, accepted the award, a beautiful silver tray, suitably inscribed, from T. Taggart Smyth, president of the City Improvement League of Montreal, one of the many projects for city betterment to which Sir Edward gave so generously of his time and talents. D. C. Coleman, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific, expressed the warm appreciation the company's officers felt at the honor paid their former chief. Pictured here, beneath the picture of Lord Mount Stephen, first chairman and president of the company, are: Left to right, Senator Donat Raymond, Mrs. James Bieby, Henry G. The Careful Shepherd

Knows Sheep Must Be Well Fed And Kept Dry

In successful sheep raising, nutrition, as with other animals, plays an important part. Half-starved sheep become a liability. The careful shepherd provides luxuriant and nutritious pastures in summer; legume roughage, oats, wheat, and bran in winter, and a liberal constant supply of minerals.

Sheep are very sensitive to dampness. Any barn which does not keep the feet and coats of sheep dry will prove a failure. Light is just as important. As a rule, one square foot of window for each 20 square feet of floor space is sufficient.

"Irish" potatoes were first developed in Peru, in the time of the Incas.

The human body contains six billion muscle cells.

In Spite Of Decree

Dutch Growers Have Named A New Tulip The Spilfire

Dutch bulb growers have given the name "Spilfire" to a new tulip and Nazi authorities are mad about it. "Giving English names to new things is forbidden," said the German-controlled Dutch press. But the decrees have a way of being forgotten. In the flower bulb field it is customary to give English names to new varieties owing to the former export to Anglo-Saxon countries.

MARKED IN ARABIC

All cheese in Egypt must now be marked in the Arabic language. In the absence of this marking, importers have to arrange with the customs authorities to have the origin mark applied to each unit of merchandise in Arabic characters before withdrawal from customs.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

MAY 30

PETER'S COUNSEL TO SCATTERED CHRISTIANS

Golden text: Honor all men. Love the brotherhood. Peter God. Honor the king. I Peter 2:17.

Lesson: I Peter 1:1, 2:9-25.

Devotional reading: Romans 12:1-8.

Explanations and Comments:

The People to Whom Peter Wrote, I Peter 1:1. Peter, an apostle of Jesus Christ, addressed his letter to "the elect," the Christians, who like the Israelites of old, are thought of as God's chosen people. They were of the Dispersion, that is, they were Jews who had been living outside of Palestine since the time of the captivity, and they were sojourning in the land that we today call Asia Minor. They were living in the provinces of Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia. "The order is natural if we suppose Peter's messenger carried his letter from Rome to a part of Pontus, then made a circuit with it, and returned to the same port." In Acts 2:9 we hear of men from Cappadocia, Pontus and Asia being at Jerusalem on the day of Pentecost.

Summoned to Live the Seemly Life, I Peter 2:11, 12. "Beloved, I beseech you as sojourners and pilgrims"—thus Peter addresses his readers. They might indeed consider themselves as exiles (sojourners and pilgrims) from their native land, but Peter is probably speaking metaphorically. He wishes them to realize that life is a journey, not a goal; they are living, as it were, in exile on earth, and since they had but a short time to stay, they must live their brief life nobly. "These Christians of pagan birth are heirs to all that Jews had claimed for themselves from God. Hence the ethical obligation, which is worked out in the words of this chapter, of pure detachment from the vices of the pagan world; those who have such a prospect must not disqualify themselves by careless living" (Moffatt). I beseech you to abstain from the passions of the flesh that wage war upon the soul, is Moffatt's translation of verse 11. Compare Romans 7:23.

How Christians Should Live as Citizens, I Peter 2:13-17. For the Lord's sake, be subject to every human institution established by man for man's welfare. "For the Lord's sake; because Jesus said, 'Render what is Caesar's to Caesar,' or, generally, because God is the source of all duly-constituted authority; or, because your loyalty redounds to the credit of your Master in heaven." Whether to the king as supreme (the Roman Emperor); or unto governors (of Roman provinces); as sent by him (God) for vengeance (punishment) on evildoers, and praise to them that do well. The ruler executes God's vengeance (Rom. 12:19), and voices God's approval (Ps. 22:25), (Expositor's Greek Testament). So Paul in writing to the Romans counsels every one to obey "the higher powers" those in authority, the civil rulers—and declares that the fact of the authority's being established argues that it was ordained of God.

Goes Back To Sea

Being Shipwrecked Did Not Bother 16-Year-Old Boy

Young Peter Cook was born 16 years ago in a cottage on top of the cliffs of Dover. His father was a seaman. His grandfather, too, and his father's grandfather. And like them, Peter wanted to go to sea.

The Atlantic Ocean took Peter's father in 1914. His mother begged her boy to stay ashore. She wanted him to be a doctor. But 12 months ago Peter joined the Merchant Navy—with a sad mother's blessing. He crossed the Atlantic as a ship's boy, and came home safely.

Recently Peter's ship was sunk in mid-Atlantic. A strong swimmer, he managed to clamber into a boat with six others of the crew.

The third officer of the ship told the rest of the story.

"After six days," he said, "our rations were cut to two biscuits and half a cup of water a day. Three of the men became delirious.

"We hadn't noticed Peter much. He sat quietly curled up, almost enjoying himself, it seemed.

"He grabbed one man who tried to walk overboard, and for the next three days, until we were picked up, told the three sick men stories to calm them down.

"Then, on the rescue ship he, too, collapsed.

"They brought Peter back to England—but couldn't keep him. He has gone back to sea again.—London Daily Sketch.

PATTERN FOR DISASTER

BY J. B. RYAN

CHAPTER IV.

CAPTAIN ROJAS favored Morgan with a herculean glance. "Is this the way you abuse our hospitality, Lieutenant Morgan?" he murmured.

"De Nova's identification of the killer isn't worth a thing," Morgan retorted quickly, hoping by his words to cover up Rojas' use of his naval rank. "He admits he did not see the face of Velasquez's visitor."

De Nova said, "There was bad blood between the colonel and the lieutenant. They quarreled in the lobby."

"They quarreled?" Rojas pinched his lower lip thoughtfully. "But— you said Velasquez and his visitor were on friendly terms. Would the colonel have ordered whisky brought up if the man with him was not a friend?"

De Nova smiled. "It could still be Senator Morgan. What would be more natural than that one of the two men should have been drinking? Velasquez prepared highballs to show that by-gones were by-gones? Only there was still anger in the American's heart. While Velasquez drank the toast of friendship, Morgan sank a knife into his host's heart."

Don Felix cleared his throat. "I may make a suggestion, Cap. Rojas, the finding of the murderer will be simple. The killer drank with Velasquez and his glass is still on the table. Even my poor eyes can see that there are fingerprints on the glass. I think, if you will compare those marks with the fingerprints of Senator Morgan, it will be proven that he is the murderer."

Morgan grinned into the face of the musician. "I quite agree, Don Felix. It is fortunate indeed that we have the glass, since there are no fingerprints on the knife handle, the haft, being composed as it is of a boss's foot."

The bespectacled eyes flickered. But Guillermo reassured himself with a quick glance at De Nova and at the glass in question now being held carefully from the table by a policeman. After emptying and wrapping the tumbler, the officer produced an ink-pad and a sheet of paper.

"Your fingerprints, Senator Morgan," he requested politely.

READILY, Morgan touched his fingers to pad and paper. As the policeman folded the prints, the American said, "Take good care of that glass, senator. If those prints do not turn out to be mine, I shall insist that you check up on the remaining hotel guests."

Cap. Rojas lifted his brows. "We shall of course do that. We are interested in only locating the guilty one."

Guillermo laughed with veiled sarcasm. "Do not let his air of injured innocence deceive you, Captain. Ex—I heard you address him as Lieutenant. It is obvious now why he came to Buenos Aires and established himself at the Casa Grande. Miguel Velasquez was a military man and you have noted that his pockets have been empty. The Yankee was after army secrets of the Argentine Republic."

"Go ahead, Guillermo," Morgan snapped, his gray eyes glinting. "Your own words are the strands of the rope that will hang you. He faced Rojas and lifted his arms. 'Search me, Captain. You will find nothing on me.'"

Don Felix laughed once more. "So you had at least brains enough to see to that? I think I see the whole thing now, Cap. Rojas. Col. Velasquez has told the plans of Argentina's coastal defenses to this disguised American officer. For all my silence I am an observant man. Morgan has asked several people to arrange an introduction to the colonel."

He paused, as if to give Morgan an opportunity to object or to explain. But Morgan remained silent. They would not believe him if he told the truth. He had hoped that through the colonel he would meet in turn Rosita Velasquez, the girl who had been in his thoughts since he had first seen her.

Don Felix continued: "The papers will be in Morgan's room, in all probability. After securing them, he came back later to kill Velasquez, either on orders from Washington or to obtain for himself the money furnished by his government for this typically American enterprise."

Some of Morgan's assurance evaporated. Guillermo was a wily devil. The substitution of Verde's glass for that of Morgan did not mean that Morgan had turned the tables completely on this clique that headquarters at the Casa Grande. In fact, if Don Felix had his way, he would use money and military maps and plans in Morgan's room, the whole affair might yet have disastrous repercussions.

THEY returned to Morgan's room. And, at the door, Cap. Rojas extended his hand. "Your key, Senator Morgan," he demanded officially. But before Morgan could comply, Felix Guillermo, the man who had done, stretched his long arm to touch the knob. The door was unlocked. The musician saw as the door swung inward. The gaunt, client grinned maliciously as he shuffled aside to allow Rojas and Morgan to precede him into the room. "Za-Morgan seems to be a tyro at intrigue, being so nervous when the time for action arrives that he forgets to secure his room against intrusion."

Chris Morgan knew he had locked that door. That it was now unlocked meant that his room had been entered during his absence. It also explained the non-appearance of Verde at the scene of the crime on the fourth floor. While De Nova and Guillermo had been disposing of the unfortunate Velasquez, Verde had been up here in Morgan's room planting the evidence that would ruin him.

Cap. Rojas paused in the centre of the room. "Where have you put the stuff, Morgan?"

"Perhaps Don Felix could tell you," Morgan retorted. "The manner in which he reasons out my supposed actions is nothing short of clairvoyance."

Rojas approached a small writing desk and began exploring the drawers and shelves. He turned away empty-handed and was stooping over a valise at the foot of the bed when Guillermo inquired a faint flavor of surprise in his even-tenored voice. "You found nothing, Captain? There are no papers or wallets in the desk—nothing belonging to Col. Velasquez?"

With a stride that belied his years, Guillermo was at the escrtoire, pawing anew through the drawers and shelves. Ready, he turned to the policeman. The anxiety of the musician was so evident that Cap. Rojas watched in surprise, and hope stirred once more within Chris Morgan.

"WHAT'S the trouble, Don Felix?" he asked. "Did you find a little friend, Senator Verde, fallen down on his part of the job?"

Guillermo did not answer. He scattered Morgan's books and magazines, dumped the contents of the valise on the floor, tossed the clothes out of the wardrobe closet and even pulled the sheets and mattress from the bed. Finally he was forced to turn, defeated and sheepish, to Rojas.

"There is nothing here," he admitted, pulling a trifle from the exercise aisle along to his years and sedentary habits.

"I'm—hm—hm." Cap. Rojas pursed his lips, and at last there was a flicker of friendliness in the eyes that looked upon Morgan. "It may be that we are doing Senor Morgan an injustice. We have not even established that the fingerprints on the glass are his."

Don Felix had the grace to bow apologetically toward the musician. "We shall let the glass establish the identity of Velasquez's killer."

Rojas said, "I shall not arrest you, senator, until I receive a report on the fingerprints. You will not leave the hotel until then?"

"I'll be here," nodded Morgan. He followed the policeman and the musician out into the hall and toward the elevator. He had allowed Don Felix to play his hand; the time had arrived for Morgan to turn the screws on the whole outfit. "In fairness to me, Captain, you should see that no one else checks out from the Casa Grande in the meantime."

"No one shall enter," growled Guillermo as he stepped into the waiting lift. "Having meditated so far in this affair, I intend to work as hard as Cap. Rojas to catch things up."

Morgan placed a hand against the door the elevator boy was about to close. "I mention this, Captain, because there is one guest of the hotel who does not seem to be around. It might be a good idea to find out where he is."

Rojas nodded. "To whom do you refer?"

"Senor Raymundo Verde, a supposed cattleman from Santa Rosa." As Morgan spoke he stepped back and permitted the elevator door to slide shut.

RETURNING from the elevator, Morgan had almost reached his room when he saw the door move a trifle. He moved forward quickly, almost leaping across the stage in the man stood in the middle of the room, a stranger, with a wide-brimmed, flat-topped hat. He wore rather boots, and about his slim waist was a metal-studded belt from which dangled a coiled, snake-like whip. The man's garb was as startling as the fact that he was unknown to Morgan; only on the stage or perhaps on the pampas of the interior did Argentines wear the habiliments of the gaucho.

"Senor Morgan?" the cowboy inclined his head slightly. "My name is Esteban Velasquez. I am the nephew of the man you killed. We have come to slide shut."

"We?" Morgan repeated.

"My sister is directly behind you," explained Esteban Velasquez. As Morgan turned, the door closed with a soft sound and Rosita Velasquez was at the side of the American. "Arriba, senor," said the girl, gesturing with the automatic pistol she held in her hand. "Up with your hands!"

Morgan smiled at the girl, but her pretty olive-skinned face remained deadly serious. She moved forward deliberately and pressed the gun muzzle against his ribs with a force that made him wince.

Desecrated Churches

Nazis Have Deprived People Of Right To Worship Openly

This happening is typical of what is occurring in churches all over Poland and in other occupied countries. Works of art are being carried away, silver and gold ritual vessels are stolen and the churches desecrated and partly destroyed or made over into garages, ballrooms, or headquarters offices. Over 700 priests from Poland have been executed or tortured to death in Nazi concentration camps. Over 3,000 more are still held prisoners. To a devout people like the Poles, this has been the most dreadful of all the dreadful things they have had to bear in the three years since the invasion of their homeland by the Nazis. Cold, hunger, and fear have walked with them and through it all they have been denied that most precious right—the right to worship openly according to their faith.

Enjoys Farm Life

English Girl Reclaims Land And Is Now Growing Food

Miss Alison Jellicoe, 25-year-old member of the famous naval family, has by sheer hard work and with very little help brought 120 acres of neglected Buckinghamshire farmland under the plough.

She is now preparing to start on another tract of 230 acres a Grade A dairy farm with an initial herd of 20 cows. Formerly she lived on her father's farm in Oxfordshire, but after war broke out she decided on farming as her war work.

Local farmers were gravely doubtful about the prospects of an apparently fragile young woman making good at farming difficult upland country, but Miss Jellicoe persisted and took over Prune Farm, near Quendon, which had been left vacant.

Here were 120 acres of land which needed development. Although Miss Jellicoe could secure the help of only a few friends, some land girls and some local labor, she managed last year to produce a bumper crop of wheat.

"Farming was originally my war job," she said. "But now it is my life job. There is no life like it."

It HAPPENED BEFORE

A famous educator had delivered an eloquent and impressive address on the value of higher education.

After the lecture there gathered about him a group of eager students seeking advice as to how they might become effective public speakers.

A pedantic young man, of the soap-box orator type, joined the group and boasted: "Well, I'm thankful to say that the Lord opened my mouth without learning."

"Ah, yes," agreed the wise old professor benignly, "a similar incident took place in Belsham's time."

A Valuable Port

Bombing Of Duisburg Is Making Transportation Hard For Nazis

Duisburg, target for R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. bombers, is well known as the largest inland port in Europe.

What this means is that roughly three-quarters of all cargoes carried on the Rhine—the principal traffic artery for coal, coke and iron ore in the Ruhr—pass through Duisburg, either down river to Rotterdam or up river to Cologne, Mannheim and Karlsruhe. Some Rhine trade also proceeds from Karlsruhe to Italy and Switzerland.

The growing inadequacy of rail transport, and the reduction of road transport to a minimum in Germany, have made it necessary for the Germans to rely more and more on water transport. The effect of an attack on the port area of Duisburg is comparable to the bombardment of locomotive production centres and the shooting up of individual locomotives.

Simplified Straight Dough Method For Making Four Loaves Of White Bread

10 cups sifted flour
4 teaspoons salt
4 tablespoons sugar
4 tablespoons butter (or lard)
1 Royal Yeast Cake
4 cups warm water, or milk or potato water. (A combination of these liquids may be used.)

Method of Preparation—

In the evening break up and soak one yeast cake for 30 minutes in four cups of warm (not hot) liquid, to which has been added 4 tablespoons sugar. Mix 4 teaspoons salt with 10 cups sifted bread flour. Melt 4 tablespoons butter or lard, and add to liquid. Mix flour and liquid. Turn out on floured board and knead well, adding flour if dough sticks to board. Place dough in warm, greased bowl, cover well and allow to rise overnight, about 10 hours.

Dough—

The following morning turn out dough on to floured board, and knead thoroughly. Place again in warm bowl, cover and allow to rise until doubled in size. Bake in moderate oven (380 degrees F.). When baked, remove loaves from pans and place on wire racks to cool, uncovered.

To make more, add 2 cups water, and a proportionate quantity of flour, sugar, salt and shortening for each additional loaf required. One Royal Yeast Cake is sufficient for six loaves. One-half teaspoon Magic Baking Soda may always be added to good advantage. Potato water, or half warm milk, produces a richer loaf than when water alone is used.

MORE APPROPRIATE

"How quaint the minds of children are!" remarked the late Jane Adams, of Hull House, one day at a mother's meeting. "One New Year's Day I gave a little girl a present of a diary."

"This is a diary," I explained to her. "Every day you must write in it a record of how you live."

"The little girl turned the blank pages of the book, and I said: 'But why isn't it called a livery instead of a diary, ma'am?'"

Proclamation-- Coal Miners

The following are new regulations of the National Selective Service,
No. 210A:

1. Canada's national economy and the industrial war effort based upon it depend upon an adequate supply of coal;

2. And, the supply of coal is being seriously reduced because of a shortage of skilled labor, while the need for coal is growing with the growth of the national war effort;

3. And, unless the supply of coal is increased and maintained at a high level, the industrial war effort and the life and health of the nation will be gravely imperilled;

4. And, the mining of coal requires a high degree of skill and experience, and it is, therefore, vital to the national interest to mobilize and employ in the production of coal all who possess this special skill and experience;

5. And, men with such skill and experience can make their maximum contribution to the war effort and the life of the nation only by engaging in coal mining.

"210A." (1) As used in this section,
"ex-coal mine worker" means any male person who has attained his 18th birthday but not his 65th birthday and who, since the 1st day of January, 1935, has been engaged or employed for an aggregate period of 24 months or more in the production of coal, either as a skilled or unskilled mine or surface worker, or as a maintenance worker in any coal mine or in the surface facilities thereof or who, on or after the 1st day of January, 1935, has worked under authority of a provincial coal miner's certificate or license, and who, on or after the date of this Order, is employed in any employment other than coal mining and, notwithstanding the provisions of section 207 of these regulations, shall include any such person who is employed as a wage earner wholly or partly in agriculture, but shall not include any such person who operates a farm, whether as an owner, tenant or full-time manager, and shall not include any full-time officer of a bona fide union of coal mine workers, and shall not include any person who was engaged or employed exclusively in office or clerical work;

(2) (i) Every employer shall make every reasonable effort forthwith (a) to advise his employees of the provisions of this section, by the posting of notice or otherwise, and (b) to determine which of his employees are ex-coal mine workers, by review of his personnel records and otherwise;

(ii) Every ex-coal mine worker who, on or after the date of this Order is employed or engaged in any other employment or occupation than as a coal mine worker, shall report his experience as a coal mine worker to his employer before the 26th day of May, 1943;

(iii) Every employer who is not a coal mine operator shall report in writing to a Selective Service officer before the 2nd day of June, 1943, the name and addresses and experience as a coal mine worker of those of his employees who he has determined are ex-coal mine workers or who have reported experience as a coal mine worker;

(iv) After the 1st day of June, 1943, no ex-coal mine worker shall continue in any other occupation or employment than that of a coal mine worker, and no employer shall retain any ex-coal mine worker in any other employment than that of a coal mine worker, without the written permission of a Selective Service officer;

(5) (i) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) of subsection one of section 209 of these regulations, a Selective Service officer may by order in writing direct any ex-coal mine worker to report for interview at a local office at any time;

(4) (i) Subject to the provisions of section 208 of these regulations, no employer shall terminate the service of any coal mine worker without the written permission of a Selective Service officer;

(ii) No person employed as a coal mine worker shall terminate his employment without the written permission of a Selective Service officer;

(6) (i) No person directed to employment as a coal mine worker, pursuant to the provisions of this section, and no person who, as his sole or main occupation, is engaged or employed as a coal mine worker shall be granted a postponement order until the 1st day of February, 1944,
pursuant to the National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations (Order in Council P.C. 10924, December 1st, 1942, as amended) and an "Order accepted prior to February 1st, 1944, for enlistment in any branch of the Armed Forces of Canada, unless such person has first obtained a permit to enlist, furnished by a Selective Service officer;

(ii) Every person directed to employment as a coal mine worker pursuant to this section, and every person who as his sole or main occupation is engaged or employed as a coal mine worker shall be deemed to have been granted a postponement order

until the 1st day of February, 1944,
pursuant to the National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations (Order in Council P.C. 10924, December 1st, 1942, as amended) and an "Order - medical examination" or an "Order - military training" shall not be sent to any such person unless a Selective Service officer has given his consent in writing to the sending of such notice;

(iii) If an "Order - medical examination" or an "Order - military training" is sent contrary to this section

it shall be null and void if the person to whom it is sent delivers it to his employer and the employer returns the notice to the Registrar by whom it was sent.

"Human Nature Cannot Be Changed?"

(By H. M. TOMLINSON)

Human nature cannot be changed.
Have you ever heard that said as a cliché? Of course you have.
Who hasn't? It always closes the argument when hope is expressed of a safer and kinder world.
There is no hope, whatever, for the innocent! It is always said when it is complained that poverty is a rot in the body of the community; and when dread takes us at the thought of a continuous routine of digging babies out of bombed homes, since anarchists can fly anywhere now. We are always positively assured that it is hopeless to expect men to give up their possessions, and to face disaster, to save others, as a testimony that there is a power not ourselves which makes for righteousness.

But they are doing it. I have seen girls taking ambulances into an inferno which appalled me. I have heard of deeds by young men, and by old men too, which make

MEAT RATIONING AS IT AFFECTS FARMERS

Farmers may slaughter their livestock for their own consumption—but must turn in to the Local Ration Board at the end of each month, 1 coupon for each two pounds of their own slaughtered meat consumed on their own premises. Farmers need in no case surrender more than half the number of each month's valid coupons for such home slaughtered meat.

The remaining half of farmers' meat coupons may be used for ordinary retail purchases of meat, on the basis of coupon values as shown on the chart above.

Farmers may supply meat from their own slaughterings to other farmers for consumption on their own farm premises. Local farmer "Beef Rings" are also permitted. Farmers providing meat to other farmers, or "Beef Rings", must collect meat coupons on the basis of 1 coupon for each two pounds of meat, gross weight. Self-addressed and stamped envelopes for mailing in coupons can be secured at your Local Ration Board.

CONSUMER MEAT IN LOCKERS

Before June 30th all consumers (including farmers) who store meat in lockers must declare in writing to the nearest Branch of the Ration Administration, the quantity of rationed meat they have in storage over and above eight pounds per person in the household. Declarations must be accompanied by sufficient coupons from the ration books of the locker holder and his household, to cover the quantity of declared stored meat at the rate of 1 coupon for each two pounds of any meat in the above groups.

The number of coupons to be detached by the locker user need not exceed more than 50% of the total meat coupons in the possession of himself and his household. Locker users may retain for retail purchasing one of each similarly numbered pair of coupons.

BREAD helps to keep Canadians healthy

CANADA'S HEALTH RECORD is high among the nations of the world. And bread, more than any other single item on the Dominion's diet, has helped to achieve this.

Bread is not only a valuable source of carbohydrates. Made with milk, as it usually is today, bread is also an important source of protein, equal to meat in its power to build and repair muscular energy.

Bread should and does supply one-quarter of the food energy of Canadians. Eat several slices every day and keep fit!

Miss Canadas Sold $94.75 In War Stamps On Saturday

Practically Equals December's Record Sales; New Supervisor Will Have to Be Appointed.

Coleman's Miss Canadas were only 25 cents short of their record sales of December last, when they sold $94.75 in war stamps last Saturday to the general public.

The day's highest sale was only $5, which shows that the girls made a large number of sales during the day.

Supervisor Mrs. H. Dafee will leave Coleman in June, which will necessitate a new supervisor being appointed by the Coleman War Finance Committee.

Girls taking part in Saturday's sales were Shirley Hubert, Frances Dibble, Yvonne Mataya, Lenore Dafee, Louise Abousaffy, Corine Fraser and Betty Hillary.

Cameron school's Junior Red Cross has almost reached the 20-ton mark in magazines sent from Coleman to the distributing centre at Halifax where members of the armed forces passing through that port are provided with reading material.

Persons having magazines, such as Life, Maclean's, Esquire, etc., are asked to notify members of the Junior Red Cross, Miss A. Yuill or leave them at Antrobus' office. The present shipment, which is almost ready, is expected to send the total weight of magazines shipped from Coleman to 20 tons.

A number of citizens are steady contributors to the local magazine depot and several citizens from other Pass towns are bringing used magazines to Antrobus' office. Business men are co-operating by having their truck driver bring magazines donated by their customers, down to the local depot, this favor being deeply appreciated by the Junior Red Cross and Mrs. Antrobus.

Human Nature

me feel very humble. I have seen my people, as one body, at the challenge, face utter ruin, without a doubt, without a murmur, and stand to it when the prospect was Domesday. How then did all that come about? I'm not quite sure. Human nature is largely a mystery. But I am sure that the complete pessimist over human nature is either a fool or a liar.

We don't have to change human nature. It certainly is not all right as it is; and it never was all right. For that reason we have had the great teachers. We have heard—at least we have heard—of the Beatitudes. But adding in the human spirit is a power which can be evoked for either good or evil. That spirit moves according to the word addressed to it. Not one of us but has witnessed this miracle.

What is an orchestral concert for? Does it appeal to the worst in us? And no selfless man, quiescent by the wrong in the world, and a passion for right and justice, can appear in any pulp, on any platform, without communicating a like spirit to the assembly. Freedom's Fires Must Be Fed Our COAL!

CANADIANS must dig and deliver coal that we may sail convoys, power vital war plants, keep our railroads rolling, preserve the nation's health!

The coal mining industry—miners and management alike—have done wonders to provide coal, but they need help. More workers must be provided, or we falter—possibly fail—in this grim hour. Nature has been generous but we must help ourselves. Our mines are rich, but undermanned. By Proclamation, His Excellency the Governor General in Council has declared that labour supply for coal mines ranks as a national emergency. Further, in order to provide manpower for coal, the Governor in Council has issued an Order in Council aimed at swelling the flow of coal from mine to firepot.

This Order is of vital interest to everyone in Canada. Every Canadian should read and study its provisions, to see whether it demands any action on his part:

- 1 EVERY EMPLOYER, REGARDLESS OF HIS INDUSTRY, must advise his employees of these Regulations, and he must assist in discovering whether any of his employees have had previous experience as coal mine workers.
- 2 EVERY EMPLOYEE, REGARDLESS OF HIS INDUSTRY, who has had previous experience as a coal mine worker, must report that fact to his employer not later than Tuesday, May 25th, 1943.
- 3 A "COAL MINE WORKER" FOR THESE PURPOSES is anyone who, since January 1st, 1935, has worked under provincial certificate or license in or around a coal mine, or who since the same date, has been employed for a total of at least 24 months in the production of coal (except at office work).
- 4 EVERY EMPLOYER, NOT A COAL MINE OPERATOR, must report in writing to a Selective Service Officer not later than Tuesday, June 1st, 1943, full details on any of his employees who are ex-coal mine workers.
- 5 SELECTIVE SERVICE OFFICERS ARE AUTHORIZED to require ex-coal mine workers to report for interview and to accept work at a coal mine.
- 6 SELECTIVE SERVICE OFFICERS MAY REQUIRE any man in any employment, if subject to Mobilization Regulations but rejected for Military Training, and certain others excluded from Military Training, to accept employment at a coal mine.
- 7 NO COAL MINE OPERATOR may terminate the services of any coal mine worker without written permission from a Selective Service Officer.
- 8 NO COAL MINE WORKER may leave employment at a coal mine without written permission from a Selective Service Officer.
- 9 EVERY EX-COAL MINE WORKER, returning to the industry under these Regulations, will be paid wages at the established rate for the job at which he is placed; and the Government will pay wages of 40 cents an hour, 8 hours a day and 48 hours a week, to any ex-coal mine worker required to leave his present employment under these provisions, but not placed immediately at coal mining.
- 10 A BOARD ALLOWANCE of not more than $7.50 a week may be paid an ex-coal mine worker now returning to a coal mine, if required to live away from the residence of his dependents.
- 11 PRESENT AND FUTURE COAL MINE WORKERS will be granted postponement from Military Training to February 1st, 1944, by virtue of their occupation; and no coal mine worker will be accepted for voluntary enlistment in the Armed Forces of Canada, prior to February 1st, 1944, except under permit to enlist from a Selective Service Officer.
- 12 NO EMPLOYER IN CANADA, EXCEPT A COAL MINE OPERATOR, may solicit for employment or hire any ex-coal mine worker.
- 13 REGARDLESS OF ANY DOMINION OR PROVINCIAL LAW, male persons at least 16 years old may be employed as coal mine workers, and female persons at least 18 years old may be employed as surface coal mine workers.
- 14 WAR EMERGENCY TRAINING CLASSES will be available for training men as coal mine workers.

Such is the substance of the new regulations. Full details may be had at any Employment and Selective Service Office. If these provisions require action on your part, you are urged in the national interest to act immediately. Severe penalties are provided for non-compliance, but the Government relies on the co-operation of the citizens of Canada to make prosecution unnecessary by prompt action as required. This is a grave emergency. Assist if you can.

Are YOU Buying War Savings Certificates REGULARLY?

Yes, we know you think you are doing everything you can to help Canada's war effort, but let's come back to our question "are you buying War Savings Certificates Regularly?"

If you are not, do you realize that you are letting the other fellow shoulder your load as well as his own? In these days of heavy deductions he has plenty to do when he shoulders his own load.

Canada must have a steady stream of money flowing into the federal treasury. You must contribute to that stream by buying War Savings Certificates.

The invasion is not far off, your son may be among the first to land on the beaches of Europe. You want him to have the best equipment in the world with which to fight. Buy Certificates regularly and he shall have it.

Rudolf Hess Could Not Touch Them If He Had

Rudolf Hess is still confined under the same conditions imposed on his arrival in this country following his mysterious flight from Germany in 1941. Foreign Secretary Eden told the House of Commons.

Answering the latest of a series of questions concerning Britain's most intriguing prisoner, Mr. Eden denied that Hitler's deputy had brought £15,000 worth of British securities to Britain or that any member of his family is here.

The question was asked by William J. Thorpe, Labor, who said he understood the securities were "being used to pay for the keep of Hess and his family in this country."

Mr. Eden said Hess brought with him only a few mark notes, worth nothing in Britain, and that even if Hess had in earlier years made any investments in Britain, as an enemy prisoner he would not have been able to touch them.

LOSSES SLIGHT

Naval losses announced that more than 11,000,000 gross tons of Allied merchant shipping sailed to North America between Nov. 8 and May 1 with losses by enemy action of only 2.18 per cent.

The Eighth Army

DURING RECENT MONTHS the progress of Britain's Eighth Army in Africa rarely failed to occupy a leading position in the daily war news. During the early part of the fighting in Africa, the term "Eighth Army" had no special significance, but it is now the symbol of a great fighting force whose fame will never be forgotten. For two and a half years and more, this force has fought on the desert and it has come to be known as "an army of young veterans." The aptness of this title is borne out by the fact that there are a number of battalion commanders who are under thirty, including several of twenty-three and twenty-four and there are brigadiers of thirty-five and thirty-six. All the armoured divisions of the Eighth Army are from the United Kingdom. The infantry includes the famous Fifty-First Highland Division, and the Fifth Division in which there are many men from the North of England. With them have fought troops from Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and India.

Supply Problem Ablly Handled

Much has been written of the magnificent leadership given to the Eighth Army by General Montgomery, under whom it made its epic advance from El Alamein to Tunisia. During this advance the Army was supported by the longest supply line used by any fighting force in the world in this war. The line stretched 12,000 miles, from Britain around the Cape of Good Hope to Egypt. To this line of communication by sea was added an ever-lengthening land line, as the army made its rapid advance. If it had not been for the perfect organization of the system of supply the progress of the army could not have been so swift, and great tribute has been paid to Lieut.-Gen. Sir David Lindsay, who was in charge of this part of the campaign. In addition to the enormous quantity of regular supplies needed, there was the problem of bringing in fresh water which raised the daily 400-ton requirement of stores for an army division to 520 tons. We are told that all supplies, from tanks to cakes of soap were delivered on schedule, and that every man in the Eighth Army partook of a Christmas dinner.

Advance Marked Turning Point

The problem of repairs was also a great one in this highly-mechanized campaign. It is said that in the first month of the advance one thousand tanks were brought out of battle, repaired, and sent back into action. In one period of twenty-four hours eighty-eight heavy tanks were repaired in the battle area, thirty-six of them being done by one corps alone. This work was done by the Quartermaster General's Staff, supported by the newly-formed Corps of Royal Electrical and Mechanical Engineers, which have recovered and repaired many mechanical vehicles behind the lines and in the battle area. The victorious advance of the Eighth Army in Africa has been one of the turning points towards an Allied victory, and its effect on the morale of the people of the United Nations has been very great. In the records of this war, the campaign of the Army in Africa will no doubt be treated as an event of outstanding significance.

HEALTH LEAGUE OF CANADA

VITAMIN A

VITAMIN A is the vitamin needed particularly for the eyes but it is also important for all the body tissues, especially the mucous membranes. If these are kept in healthy condition, we shall be less susceptible to infections, including colds. Vitamin A will not prevent colds, but by keeping the tissues of the respiratory tract healthy we are less susceptible to infection and any illness we may suffer as a result of infection is likely to be less severe.

A common condition due to Vitamin A deficiency is a form of night blindness; that means simply inability to see clearly in the dark. Our best and easiest, and also cheapest, way to get Vitamin A is from carrots. One carrot per day will give more than half the total amount the body needs. One teaspoon of cod liver oil provides more than a day's requirement. Green vegetables, such as spinach and lettuce, and yellow vegetables, such as carrots, sweet potatoes and squash, contain large amounts of the vitamin. There is more than a day's needs in an average serving.

Vitamin A is not destroyed in cooking, so that this is one Vitamin easily provided. If we eat to it that we get one yellow or green vegetable daily. Raw vegetables are always better as they contain more of the other vitamins and the minerals.

Recipe

Carrot Strips: Cut carrots (one medium root for each member of the family), into strips two or three inches long, one-quarter inch square. Crisp in ice water or cold water and serve at lunch or dinner. Carrot strips may also be given children between meals instead of candy.

Different This Time

Present War Has Been Kinder To Britain's Military Leaders

This has been a much kinder war to Britain's military leaders than the struggle of 1914-18. There has been no spectacular resignation and very little sacking. Generals have been removed from their posts and admirals transferred, but it has all been done in an atmosphere of finding other use for their great abilities.

Wavell went to India after the reverses in Libya that followed the ill-starred Greek intervention. Auchinleck succeeded Wavell, but he, too, went when Rommel invaded Egypt. Admiral Sir Tom Phillips might have been recalled if he had not gone down with the Prince of Wales.

But on the whole there is no comparison with the upsets of the last war.

Almost at the beginning of the last war Prince Louis of Battenberg, the First Sea Lord, was brought down by public clamor. Then two admirals were finished by the escape of the Goeben and Breslau to Turkey.

With the courtliness of our race, Rear-Admiral Troubridge was honorably exonerated by a court martial, while the Board of Admirals declared that Admiral Sir Bersey Milne had done everything he could. But it was the end of both of them.

General Sir Ian Hamilton, commanding our forces in Gallipoli, refused to have anything to do with such a dangerous and cowardly move as the withdrawal from the Peninsula. That finished him.

Sir John French was recalled from his post as commander-in-chief after the heavy losses at the battle of Loos.

Lord 'Jack' Fisher, when First Sea Lord, pulled down the blinds of his office and went to Scotland. He intended thereby to break Winston Churchill as First Lord. He succeeded as far as Churchill was concerned, but found he had pulled down the blinds on his own career.

Sir Hubert Gough was removed from his command of the Fifth Army after the German attack in 1918. Sir William Robertson, the C.I.G.S., who had risen from the ranks, quarreled with Mr. Lloyd George, and lost the verdict. General Sir Frederick Maurice, while director of military operations, wrote a letter to the press blaming the defeats of 1918 on Mr. Lloyd George, "who kept a huge body of troops at home because of a panic, hypothetical invasion." And after a debate in Parliament Sir Frederick went.

Sir John Jellicoe won the Battle of Jutland and was "promoted" to First Sea Lord. His rival, Sir David Beatty, replaced him as commander-in-chief of the Home Fleet. Then Jellicoe went on a special mission to the Empire and Beatty took over as First Sea Lord.

After the war Jellicoe was given an earldom and £250,000. Beatty was given an earldom and $500,000. That was Lloyd George's verdict on Jutland. The wonder is that Haig survived. As Mr. Damon Runyon would say, "He thumbed Mr. Lloyd George more than somewhat," while Mr. Lloyd George took a much lower view of the commander-in-chief than of his ultimate biographer, Mr. Duff Cooper.

New Airplane Engines Produce Electricity During The Test Run

After years of idle running on test-stands for the breaking-in process, new airplane engines have been given useful work to do. Hooked up with an ordinary electric generator of the type normally driven by a Diesel engine, one engine can produce about 2,000 kilowatt-hours of electrical energy during its test run. Every newly completed aircraft engine is given what engineers call a "green" run in a special test cell, then it goes back to the factory to be taken apart, inspected and reassembled for the final break-in run. Generators thus used in one factory produce more than 4,000,000 kilowatt-hours, worth about $24,000, which is enough to drive the factory's lathes, drills, grinders, boring machines and other tools used in manufacturing the engines, as well as to light the factory.

They also aid in the tests, since by measuring the electricity generated engineers can tell whether the engine is running properly.—Popular Mechanics.

The Poultry Industry

Now Faced With Greatest Demand It Has Ever Known

The poultry industry of Canada during the next 12 months will be faced with the greatest demand for eggs and poultry it has ever known. At least 100,000,000 dozen eggs will be required for export alone to several countries. In addition, the requirements of the armed forces have doubled since the first year of war and the civilian domestic situation is demanding more and still more eggs.

Russian Play About Merchant Ships Was Performed At Archangel

Not many miles outside the Arctic Circle a play on the theme of the northern convoys between Britain and the Soviet Union has been performed, writes our special correspondent in Moscow.

It is Yuri Herman's Here's to Those on Passage, and was running at the Grand Dramatic Theatre at Archangel, where it was produced to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the Red Army. Its popularity was said to be considerable. The play, in four acts, describes the adventures of two merchant ships, one Russian, the other British, and the relations between the respective crews. A close friendship exists between the Georgian captain of the Saltikov and the British Captain Sullivan of the Armenia, and this is sealed in the play's climax when, during 76-hour bombings and torpedo attacks, the British vessel is lost and the captain rescued and given musical honors—"Rule, Britannia!" on flute—and a guard of honor consisting of severely wounded members of the Russian ship's crew.

The British characters are drawn with sympathy and understanding.—London Times.

REALLY WORTH IT

With a sparkle in his eyes, the young fellow walked into the showroom.

"If I bought this car by instalments," he said, pointing to a particularly "sporty" model, "how long would it take me to pay for it?"

"That would depend on how much you could afford each month, sir," replied the salesman, cautiously.

The young man scratched his chin. "Well, I think I could manage three dollars a month."

The salesman's eyes popped. "Three dollars a month?" he gasped. "At that rate it would take a hundred years!"

Gazing longingly at the very stream-lined model, the young man said:

"So what? It's worth it!"

Going Too Far

Man On Leave Found Wife Wearing His Favorite Clothes

Coming home on leave the other day a friend of mine decided to go into "civvies." He searched in vain for the new grey flannel suit bought just before joining up. He took up the matter with his wife.

"Where's my flannel suit?" he demanded suspiciously.

"Well—er," she began, and glanced self-consciously at the costume she was wearing. It was of grey flannel. "I didn't think you'd be needing it," she explained apologetically, "and it looked a shame to leave it hanging in the wardrobe."

Worse was to follow. Further search by my friend revealed that one of his best dress shirts had been sacrificed to make a shirt-blower to go with his wife's A.R.P. uniform; that a favorite pull-over had been unravelled and re-knit as a jumper, and that a favorite scarlet blazer was already in the last stages of disintegration before transformation into a smart companion to his wife's black skirt.

His wife had joined a "make-do and mend" class. Now he insists she shall mend her ways.—Leeds Yorkshire Post.

GERMANY RUSHING PLANS TO PROTECT INDUSTRIES AND DAMS FROM ALLIED BOMBARDMENT

London.—Shocked by the success of the R.A.F.'s smashing of the Mohne and Eder dams, the Germans were reported rushing anti-aircraft protection and protecting nets for their remaining big dams, particularly Bleiloch dam and power station which feeds the Leuna nitrogen and fertilizer works and other industries.

Bleiloch, Germany's great dam, produces 250,000,000 kilowatt hours of power yearly. Located on the Saale river near Saalfeld, 80 miles southwest of Leipzig, it is well within bomber range of England.

The ministry of economic warfare has estimated that 25 per cent. of German electricity is produced by water power.

A source with a good background of Germany's power set-up, who is now in Britain, said that R.A.F. could seriously damage German industries by knocking out the Bleiloch, Wachsenau, Biber and Murgthal dams and power stations, thus forcing the Germans to switch over plants to full dependence upon coal.

GOOD PHOTOGRAPHS

Taken From Dover Show Fortification On French Coast

Montreal.—The B.C. said the Daily Express published two photographs of the French "invasion" coast made with a ten-foot-long telephoto camera. The pictures showed fortifications prepared by the Germans.

The camera, using infra-red plates, was set up on the cliffs near Dover and the resulting photographs showed a 10-mile-long panorama of the French coast.

ORDER PLACED

United States Is Supplying Helicopters For Use In Canada

Washington.—The Canadian wartime information board disclosed that six helicopters have been ordered from the U.S. for possible anti-submarine work.

The R.C.A.F. also may employ helicopters to rescue airmen forced down in areas inaccessible to any other kind of conveyance, the announcement said.

STATISTICS OFFICE

Vancouver.—Dominion bureau of statistics has set up an office in Vancouver to study at first hand the cost-of-living index and to confer with provincial organizations and investigate their complaints. Similar offices are being set up in other provinces.

ESCAPES INJURY

Allied Headquarters in North Africa.—Col. Elliot Roosevelt, son of the United States president, escaped injury when his plane collided with another on an air field near Algiers.

OPINION IS DIVIDED AS TO WHETHER AIR BOMBARDMENT WOULD CAUSE AXIS COLLAPSE

Washington.—The possibility that Allied military leaders are trying to shatter Axis Europe by aerial bombardment so that when invasion is attempted it will meet resistance only by a demoralized foe was read into Prime Minister Churchill's speech by competent observers here.

A flurry of speculation was stirred by two remarks made by Mr. Churchill, who omitted any direct reference to the long-discussed invasion.

He said:

(1) It is "worth trying" to bring about a collapse in Germany and Italy by air power alone.

(2) The Allies must do everything "sensible and practicable" to divert Axis strength from the Russian front.

In view of the devastation wrought in Germany and occupied Europe by recent round-the-clock bombings, chief interest in official Washington centred around what seemed to be a hint that the cherished theory of "pure air power" enthusiasts—a victory by air alone—was being put to the test.

"Opinion is divided," Churchill said, "as to whether the use of air power could by itself bring about a collapse in Germany or Italy."

"The experiment is well worth try-

ASKS RECOGNITION

T. C. Davis Wants Honor Given To Chaplain From Canada

Ottawa.—Defense Minister Ralston was asked in the House of Commons to use his influence in obtaining recognition for Captain Jack Foote, a Canadian chaplain in the Dieppe raid who jumped from a departing rescue craft and swam back to join his comrades in captivity on the beach.

The request was made by T. C. Douglas (C.C.F., Weyburn). Capt. Foote left a Presbyterian church in Port Hope, Ont., to enlist. He is now in a German prison camp.

LOSSES HEAVY

Axis Casualties In Africa And Middle East Triple Allies

London.—Deputy Prime Minister Attlee announced in the House of Commons that Axis casualties in Africa and the Middle East were nearly triple the losses sustained by Britain since Italy entered the war on June 10, 1940.

British, Commonwealth and Empire forces have lost approximately 220,000 men killed, wounded and missing, Attlee declared.

German casualties in Africa and the Middle East, he said, total 227,000, and Italian casualties 400,000.

GERMAN PLANS

Hitler Has Ordered Fight To Finish In Norway

Montreal.—Underground reports to the Norwegian government press attaché here say that Hitler has decided to "do a Tunis" in Norway.

The reports declare knowledge of German high command plans for a military campaign envisaging the loss of Norway to the United Nations.

German orders are that their occupation forces must "fight to the last man"—reminiscent of order Hitler gave his ill-fated Africa Korps.

Nazi plans are said to take it for granted the Allies will be able to occupy all of northern Norway and that they will have the full co-operation of the populace. However, the Nazis are counting on defence lines established in central Norway to hold up the expected United Nations advance.

ITALIAN AIR FORCE

Even With German Help Could Not Withstand Allied Attack

London.—The British air ministry said in a summary that "the total Italian air strength is so small and so technically inferior to the Allies that its best efforts, even in conjunction with the German air force, could not adequately protect Italy from Allied air attack."

The bulk of the Axis air strength in Africa, the ministry statement said, was the German air force, and even with that trained personnel and with planes superior to those of the Italians the Axis lost at least four times as many aircraft as did the Allies.

The statement pointed out that Italy was vulnerable to air attack from both North Africa and from the Middle East.

A Berne despatch quoted Milan sources as saying that Gen. Vittorio Ambrosio, chief of the Italian general staff, had presented his resignation to Mussolini.

BEING KEPT SECRET

Nothing Known About American Specialist Units Now In Britain

London.—Extraordinary secrecy surrounds arrival in Britain of thousands of American crack specialist units. Nothing is known except that they are in Britain. What kind of specialists troops they are no one knows, but it is known they are a vital part of United Nations invasion strategy.

Thirty correspondents had been invited to see the arrival of the convoy, but when they reached their destination they were ordered back to London. Authorities had decided to take every precaution against any description of the specialists leaking out.

BEEF CATTLE MARKET WILL BE PROTECTED FROM UNDUE DROP BY SERIES OF FLOOR PRICES

Ottawa.—The prices board and agricultural food board announced jointly the establishment of a series of floor prices for beef which will correspond to the seasonal ceiling prices which existed last fall and winter.

The announcement said the beef cattle market will be protected from any undue drop in price which might result from meat rationing through market support given by the agricultural department's purchase of beef in periods of surplus when prices might ordinarily be expected to fall.

The statement said:

"Arrangements now completed carry into effect the statement of government policy made in October, 1942. At that time it was stated that the schedule of maximum wholesale prices for beef reached on May 27, 1943, would remain in effect indefinitely, and that steps would be taken to ensure that beef cattle prices were supported at levels appropriate to the fixed ceiling.

"Throughout the next 12-month period, the wholesale beef ceiling will, therefore, be a flat one, on the level reached on May 27. At any time during the year when the market is not over-supplied, cattle may be expected to sell at prices equivalent to the wholesale beef ceiling schedule.

"In period of surplus supplies, the market will be supported by government purchases of beef through the department of agriculture at prices which, without piercing the ceiling, will maintain the floor which now has been established.

"From May 27 to Aug. 14, the floor price for carcass beef will be one-quarter cent per pound below the maximum wholesale prices set by the prices board in its order 194. From Aug. 16 to Sept. 18, the floor price will be one cent below the ceiling, and from Sept. 20 to Dec. 18 it will be maintained at the level of last year's ceiling during that period; i.e., at two and one-quarter cents below this year's ceiling.

"On Dec. 20, the floor price will be raised by one-half cent a pound, and further one-half cent increases will go into effect on Feb. 7, March 20 and April 24, 1944. On April 24, 1944, the floor price will be back to a point one-quarter cent below the ceiling.

"Of primary significance to beef cattle producers is the fact that from Sept. 21 to the end of the following April the floor price maintained will follow a curve corresponding exactly to the ceiling price schedule of the past winter. It will be of interest to producers who annually purchase feeder cattle that during the late summer and fall period, support to the market is being provided on a level which follows the normal seasonal trend.

"From the supplies of beef acquired by the department of agriculture, reserves will be built up sufficient to take care of domestic requirements under rationing in period of short supply. Beyond that point, the rest will be available for shipment to our friends and allies overseas."

Burma Raid By British Troops Was Kept Secret

A British Base on the Indo-Burma Frontier.—A super-raid by British and Empire troops that for three months swept through Burma on a 300-mile front, wrecking railroads and bridges and generally harassing Japanese occupation forces, drew near its close as the raiders, many of them disease-ridden, struggled out of the jungle.

For three months fighting forces of Britons, Burmese, Indians and jungle tribesmen marched through the jungle, bobbing up everywhere from Mandalay northward to Myitkin in pester the Japanese, while not a word of their exploits was allowed to reach the world.

(Reuters news agency said the force included a small number of Canadian and Australian volunteers. The Reuters despatch to London identified one of the Canadians as Capt. Roy MacKenzie of Windsor, Ont., who said he helped blow up a railway line and once was swept nearly two miles down the Irrawaddy river.)

The raid began Feb. 15 when a force of whom a third were Britons crossed the Chindwin river on the Burma side of the frontier. It was at a somewhat critical hour, as in north Burma on the Salween front the Japanese were pressing hard against the Chinese. A band of approximately 5,000 loyal Burma tribal fighters were surrounded in north Burma and threatened with annihilation by a Japanese punitive expedition.

The man who led the expedition is Brig. Charles Orde Wingate, 39, the same man who at the beginning of the Ethiopian campaign three years ago led 2,000 Sudanese and 1,000 Ethiopian warriors in operations that resulted in the capture or disposal of 40,000 Italians.

Before his troops returned they were convinced they had accomplished a seven-fold task:

They had destroyed several bridges and had blown up 100 miles of railroad in 70 different places.

They had delayed a Japanese move against the Chindwin river barrier near the Indo-Burma frontier.

They had taken the pressure off the Chinese to the north.

They had saved 5,000 loyal native warriors by compelling the Japanese to withdraw their punitive expedition for use against the raiders.

They had received invaluable training in jungle warfare, and they had proved Wingate's contention that quick training could make Allied troops equal to the jungle and the Japanese.

SPIES IN AUSTRALIA

San Francisco.—Australian Navy Minister Makin said there may be an enemy spy ring operating in Australia. An Australian radio broadcast quoted Makin as saying that recent Allied shipping losses seem to be more than coincidental. He found what he called "sinister implications" in the type of vessels that are being torpedoed.

There goes your letter to your boy...

IN IT, you put the home-spun bits of chit-chat you know he wants to hear... and in it you also put your heart. You mailed it with a prayer that it might find him safe and well.

Look—it's already on the way... speeding as fast as railway wheels can carry it.

Those singing wheels carry more—much more—than letters. They carry food for your pantry, coal for your furnace. They roll tirelessly that you may live in comfort. They race across the great stretches of this Dominion with the men and materials of war, so that all of us may live in freedom.

Twenty-four hours a day our railway wheels are rolling, driven by an army of over 150,000 workers serving two major fronts... the home front and the fighting front.

"Keep 'em rolling" is their watchword, whether it's food or fuel, tanks or troops.

Or just your letter to your boy...
